THE MINIATURE PLAYERS

by Laurie York Erskine

When Sir Rabindranath Tagore, representing the farthest east in Nobel Prize winners, composed in poetic dialogue his own interpretation of boyhood's long, long thoughts, he entitled it, with his unfailing affinity for the symbolic, "THE POST OFFICE". For the clearer understanding of a western world which is inclined to see nothing but grief in the dying thoughts of a little boy, he might better have called it, "WHAT NEVER DIES"; for even the most heartless cynic must realize that the happy ability of little Amal to find adventure, beauty and friendship and love, in the tiny world commanded by the space of his little window, is one of the spiritual realities that only dies in hearts of those unfortunate enough to reject it.

Shoreham residents owe a great deal to the patient work and artistic effort of the girls who, under the direction of Mrs. H. F. Hughes, presented this great small play at the Shoreham Club last Friday evening. Your scribe is informed that Miss Ann Waters, who played with admirable intelligence and fine diction, the part of the boy, Amal, is especially to be thanked for her persistence in memorizing and working out an exceedingly long and difficult part, while the cooperation of all the girls and their parents was noticeable in the beauty of the costumes and all the details of production. The cast was so uniformly successful in delivering with unusual intelligence and feeling the very difficult nuances of the play that to single out any one for mention would be manifestly unfair. One can only congratulate them all upon a good work well done, and upon the unusual opportunity they have enjoyed of an intimate acquaintanceship with the beauty of fine literature. Rarely do amateur theatricals give children such a valuable cultural experience.

COMMUNITY BEAUTY

by Loutrel W. Briggs

The culture of a community is reflected in its efforts to create beauty. The very attractive little park which the visitor to Shoreham sees at the entrance to the club grounds is an excellent expression of this endeavor. And happily this spirit is growing, for now it is proposed to beautify the triangle where you enter Shoreham from the highway.

All community efforts are accompanied by more or less variety in opinions, and with this in mind, it would be well to give a few of the reasons for certain suggestions. Naturally some people will feel that there should be dahlias or pansies instead of what they see planted, and others may consider a bird bath or Italian jar just the thing to be put in too, and wonder why there isn't any. If they know the motives behind what has been done, then, there will be much more general satisfaction. Good artistic design is really built upon practical considerations and logical conclusions.

The basic problem is to create something which will be expressive of Shoreham and its people, to be done within certain limitations of initial cost and upkeep. One of the outstanding characteristics of every self-respecting community is neatness. Therefore we should have a type of arrangement which can be well kept with little labor. First, it would be advisable to have a low concrete curb at the three outlets to the highway, to give the roads a definite and gracefully curved edge, and clean up a rather untidy mixture of grass and gravel which exists now. To further reflect the atmosphere of Shoreham, after a number of extremely pleasant visits, the general design should be unpretentious, restful, and natural. The whole triangle would be gently rolling lawn, and in the corners groups of dogwoods, with the lower branches removed so that motorists would have a clear view.

PROGRAM OF ACTIVITIES FOR 1934

Saturday, August 4 Monte Carlo Night
 Tuesday, August 7 Children's Dance
 Saturday, August 11 Dance
 Tuesday, August 14 Children's Dance
 Saturday, August 18 Strolling Players
 Tuesday, August 21 Children's Dance
 Saturday, August 25 Shoreham Follies
 Tuesday, August 28 Children's Party
 Saturday, Sept. 1 Cabaret Night
 Monday, Sept. 3 Tennis Tournament
 Community Services every Sunday Night during July and August.

MONTE CARLO NIGHT

Saturday August 4 at 9 PM. In the Log Cabin will be held various games in which someone will profit, someone must win. The Club will benefit on a percentage basis.

Dancing - In the Club House, Dance Music without charge will be offered by Ray Noble, Eddy Duchin, Casa Loma and others playing their latest hits - Moon Glow, The Very Thought of You, Not Bad and others. The music will be amplified by the latest electrical devices, designed for and recently installed in many Westchester Clubs. The Club would like to have as many members as possible visit the Club house, if only for a dance or two, and give an expression of opinion. In any event the new arrangement makes it possible to give the children the very latest and best music without charge on Tuesday nights and supplies a needed aid in the rehearsal of the Follies and other entertainments. It is not the intention that this music will supersede a regular Saturday night orchestra but will make available good music for all other occasions where music is desirable and thus enhance the value of the Club house for private rentals.

TUESDAY NIGHT DANCES

Tuesday Evening Dances for the Children at eight o'clock is a time eagerly looked forward to by the Miniature group and the future chorus for next year's Follies. Each Tuesday an experienced older group take charge and show the Miniatures through the newer dance steps. No charge is made for Tuesday Night Dances.

Following the production, "THE POST OFFICE", the boys presented a whimsical comedy of adventure, "THE BOY WHO WENT", by Laurie York Erskine, author of the Renfrew Books for boys, (Advt.) The author of this short playlet confesses that the idea was given him by the boys who were the originals for the characters of the play. Noticing how inevitably they projected themselves into the characters of the stories he told them, he tried the experiment of writing a play which would swallow up all its characters in a whirlpool formed by its own plot. Hence "THE BOY WHO WENT", which, directed by Mr. C. Robert Kase, Director of English and Dramatics at the University of Delaware, gave the boys their chance to prove that they, too, could play a part. Too much cannot be said for the ingenuity and skill with which Mr. Kase adapted the playlet to the occasion. By direction he added details of comedy and action which gave an atmosphere of spontaneity to the sketch that created the illusion of reality. Again it would be unfair to single out any particular actor for mention, although Buddy Sherman gave such an appealing performance as the small boy who was shut up in a trunk, that perhaps his part will be remembered the longest. Messres James, Jack Hagenah and Otto Hagenah contributed their services generously to add reality to the sterner scenes, and Jim O'Brien, Paul Vermylen and Tom Hughes did nobly with the parts of older boys, but the audience, I think, will remember the play best as an ensemble. Certainly the dramatic entrance of Fred Van Arnan, the horrified reflections of Joseph Gautier, the breathless remarks of Dan Streeter and the artistic tension displayed in moments of peril by Messres Bob Hughes, Alan Warden, Billy Van Arnan, Alan Streeter, and Kenneth Thurber did as much for the play as the author did, and the statement is written by one who ought to know.

THE FUTURE POLICY OF THE CLUB

Every effort is being made to attract people to our Club. Novel entertainments of various kinds have been tried. New ideas again are sought. Among our members and guests, is much talent that all would like to enjoy. Comedy, tap dancing, revivals of old songs are always, apparently, a delight. If members have any other ideas that may have been overlooked, yet are of especial appeal, tell us what they are. So the Club may even plan ahead for next year give us your views now on anything that might encourage greater attendance and enjoyment.

The Long Island Lighting Co. set a fine example in cooperation, speed, and saving of trees in carrying their wires through to the new Shoreham development at the end of Valentine Road and shore-front.

GARDEN CLUB CARD PARTY

Last Tuesday evening the members of the Shoreham Garden Club and there guests gathered at the home of Mrs. F. W. Gridley for a bridge party. The affair had been planned for the benefit of the Club treasury, and proved a great success both socially and financially. Mrs. L. A. Eddy and Mrs. E. W. Oliver, who with Mrs. Gridley arranged the party, caused the evening to run smoothly and happily. It was necessary to provide ten tables altogether, yet so broad and extensive is the veranda at the Gridley home that it was possible for all to play outdoors. The winner at each table was given a prize. There was also a lucky number door prize, a handsome bon bon dish which was won by Mrs. William Van Arman. It was quite late when the guests were persuaded to leave their game and were ushered into the dining room to partake of what seemed an endless variety of delicious cakes and a delightfully icy punch. Judging by the large attendance at this card party, everyone seems to know just how enjoyable the Shoreham Garden Club bridge parties are and it is really superfluous to spread the news.

The Shoreham Garden Club's next meeting is at the home of Mrs. H. W. Todd on Tuesday, August 7 at 8 PM. Mrs. Clayton Peters of the New York State Institute of Applied Agriculture, Farmingdale, Long Island, will lecture on Wild Flowers.

THE STROLLING PLAYERS

The Strolling Players group have begun rehearsing under the direction of Mrs. T. K. Elliott for their third annual production. they plan to present a program of three or four short plays on the evening of August 18 at the Shoreham Country Club.

SHOREHAM FOLLIES

SATURDAY, AUGUST 25. Each year one of the outstanding entertainments at the Club is the Shoreham Follies. This year the club is particularly fortunate in having Miss Mary Ida Cross to supervise and rehearse the group. Mary Ida, a talented dancer herself knows what the club members enjoy most so a delightful entertainment may be expected.
