AN OUNCE OF PREVENTION

L. W. Briggs

The horrible tent caterpillar who devastated the apple and wild cherry trees, and nibbled some other varieties too, is disappearing; - what a relief! If entomologists were capable of such language they would probably say "Oh yeh?". As a matter of fact, the slow moving insect who ate up your orchards and dropped down your neck is merely putting on a new act. After spending three weeks, more or less, in a white silky cocoon, about one inch long, which may be found at this time of year around buildings, on fences, under loose bark or rubbish, he or she emerges as an aviator with brown wings spreading approximately one and one half inches, and having two almost parallel white lines on them. If you do your duty to your countryside you will destroy these cocoons and moths. As a female moth lays 200 eggs, there is certainly economy of effort in eliminating 200 potential destroyers of foliage in one swat.

HIDDEN TREASURES IN THE SANDS

Dr. Oliver Howe

As you rest on the sands in your bathing suit this summer, as you sift the cool grains, you are handling gems of the rarest beauty without knowing it. The spendthrift sea has ground millions of garnet, amethyst and other gems into tiny little jewels. You love to gaze out across the ocean for the sunsets and the blues, or long for sight of a sail on the far horizon. But there beneath you is a wondrous world.

The sand of most sea beaches and dunes consists mainly of quartz, which is the most resistant mineral in granite. The other softer minerals become disintegrated and form clay and soil. Constant motion of the waves on beaches fractures some of the grains and wears off the corners by contact with other grains. When they become very small they are no longer worn round, but are protected from each other by the thin film of water.

FRONT PAGE PICTURE

The cover picture is the architect's sketch of the Shoreham Country Club House which since last year, has practically been more than doubled in floor area. The new south wing, designed by George Edward Beatty architect, makes a beautiful entrance and lounge.

Sincerest thanks are due to those public spirited citizens who made this possible. They have shown the same broadness of vision that characterized the founders of the village. The women have taken a most active interest in plans for beautifying the inside of the club and landscaping the grounds.

Four additional tennis courts are now being laid out and will be completed soon.

It is noticeable that real estate is becoming more active due perhaps to this civic interest.

Many houses have been revamped this year and sold or rented.

Several purchasers recently have improved their property. There are a few still that could be improved at small expense which would be more than offset by the benefits accruing in increased rentals or sales value or in mortgage protection. Such benefits of course extend not only to the adjoining houses but far beyond.

VANDERBILT MARINE MUSEUM

It is not generally known that there is one of the greatest private museums in the world situated on the beautiful William K. Vanderbilt estate at Centerport, L. I.

Mr. Vanderbilt has perhaps the greatest individual piscatorial collection extant. Extant is a most appropriate word because the lighting effects give to the finny denizens of the marine depths, life like appearance.

It is hard to select the most outstanding group and we would not attempt it but a very lasting impression was made by that realistic group depicting life on the arid Galapagos Islands. Here at the Equator the water is cold enough to be attractive to the solemn penguins. Let one of the Museum's able staff guide you through this marine wonderland.

Permission may be had to visit the Vanderbilt Marine Museum, Centerport, L. I. on any Wednesday by applying to the aforementioned stating size of your party and names.

SHOREHAM SCRIBE

SHOREHAM, NEW YORK

J. E. HUGHES, EDITOR

Shoreham 62

The "Shoreham Scribe", started last summer, is being published again this year. It will cover the area between Port Jefferson and Wading River, and will print a summary of the local news and events of the week, together with many interesting articles on a variety of subjects of local interest.

The "Scribe" is issued every Friday for ten weeks during the summer season beginning on June 28th. The subscription price is one dollar for the season. Please fill out the blank below and mail with one dollar enclosed to the "Shoreham Scribe", Shadow Oaks, Shoreham, L. I. If you have friends or relatives away for the summer whom you think would be interested in keeping up on the news "back home", we will be glad to mail the "Scribe" to them.

Information concerning advertising and rates may be had by writing to the "Scribe" office.

If you wish to run off a few hundred copies of a letter, program, or some other reading matter, or if your business calls for circulars or cards, send it to the SHOREHAM SCRIBE MIMMOGRAPHERS. Our motto is "Fine Work Done Quickly" - and, of course, Mimeographing is less costly than printing.

AN OUNCE OF PREVENTION (cont'd)

Later in the season watch for eggs, chiefly on the twigs of wild cherry and apple trees. They come in bunches of 200, laid end on end, closely packed and covered with a light frothy glue, making a hard shiny mass about three quarters of an inch long. These offer the last chance to check the invasion scheduled for next spring. Prune them off, and if you want to further help the cause, put them in a box covered with netting to permit the parasites to escape. Certain species of the little chalcis-flies are parasitic in the eggs and destroy many of them. Birds aid by disposing of a number of the caterpil-lars. You can do your part by spraying infected trees just after the foliage comes out with Paris green or arsenate of lead, by burning nests (the best time for this is toward evening when the caterpillars are usually at home) or soaking the nests with a spray of kerosene, being careful not to let it get on the surrounding foliage, or by destroying the cocoons, moths, and egg masses. It is never "too late" to kill a tent caterpillar. This, I think would be a good Garden Club slogan. One more suggestion, don't cut down wild cherry trees or you will only send the pest to other more desirable varieties, I am sure.

HIDDEN TREASURES IN THE SANDS (cont'd)

When acted on by the wind, however, the grains rapidly become rounded, are swept inland and form dunes. The migration of dunes under the force of the wind keeps up constant attrition. The contrast between grains low down on a sandy beach, which resemble miniature blocks of ice and the ground glass surfaced globular ones in a dune is very marked.

A few beaches along the Long Island Sound like that at Westport, Connecticut, have sand of a purplish or reddish color, containing hard minerals like garnet, amethyst, nephelinite, and others.

This sand is very beautiful when magnified, resembling a casket of gems. These colored grains are sparingly contained in granite and also in quartz sand. On many beaches of white sand, a narrow zone of colored sand will be found at the extreme limit of high tide. The colored minerals are much heavier than the quartz, and are dropped by the incoming wave at the instant it loses its momentum and comes to rest. As the retreat begins, the larger grains of quartz are dropped; then the next in size, until finally, low down, the very smallest quartz grains are deposited by the retreating wave. Particles of clay are carried far out and settle where the water is comparatively calm.

FOR SAFER ROADS AND SAFER DRIVERS

Roads the hue of the orange-colored marigold flowers are being tried by British highway engineers. Bordered with a white curb, the marigold roads are found to reduce sunlight glare, and dazzle at night; to define the road in all lights and to allow pedestrians to be easily picked out. It is also suggested that these colored roads will give pleasure to the traveler's eye.

Highway police in Utah are equipped with small motion-picture cameras to take pictures of any person jeopardizing highway safety. Of the first 52 cases so photographed, 48 pleaded guilty after they had a look at the films.

Out here they wouldn't even wait to see the films.

SHOREHAM GARDEN CLUB

The Shoreham Garden Club, now a full-fledged member of the State Federation of Garden Clubs, begins its seventh season with the following officers for the year of 1935:

EXECUTIVE BOARD

Mrs. A. J. Sackett	President
Mrs. E. F. Stevens	Vice-President
Mrs. T. K. Elliott	Secretary
Mrs. R. B. McGahan	Treasurer
Mrs. C. D. Waters	Historian

Mrs. F. W. Gridley

Mrs. R. D. Warden

Chairmen of Committees

Mrs. H. W. Todd	Library
Mrs. T. K. Elliott	Beach
Mrs. E. F. Stevens	Hospitality
Mrs. S. E. Robinson	Roadside
Mrs. H. F. Hughes	Publicity
Mrs. E. W. Oliver	Annual Luncheon
Mrs. C. V. Pallister	Oval
Mrs. W. VanArman	Membership
Mrs. R. D. Warden	Program

Through the winter Executive Committee meetings were held and two general meetings.
One of these general meetings, planned under the chairmanship of Mrs. E. W. Oliver, was a beautifully presented Springtime Luncheon in the Rainbow Room on the 65th floor at Rockefeller Center in New York City.
Mrs. A. J. Sackett presided. The guest speaker on this occasion was Miss Alice Krauser whose delightful talk on gardening, augmented by exhibits of some beautiful and rare specimens and photographs, held her listeners to a very late hour.

Due to the efforts of its Garden Club,
Shoreham presents a much improved entrance to its summer visitors. The triangle at the junction of 25A and Woodville Road has undergone a reclamation process. After the removal of old buildings and tree stump it was ploughed and graded. It now blooms with beautiful shrubs which were most generously donated to the project by the Hart
Nursery of Wading River.

Beyond the Triangle, turning into Shoreham, the impressive resurfaced road opens its arms wider than ever, in fact two feet wider on each side. Its curves are noticeably clear of brush and it extends to the Shoreham Country Club door. The work was done under the supervision of Superintendent of Highways Harold Davis whose personal interest made it possible.

Shoreham Garden Club now plans the landscaping of the grounds about the Shoreham Country Club, to begin late in the summer. To raise funds for this project, a program of entertainments to be offered to the public was arranged at a meeting on June 28th.

The first in the series is a card party to be held at 8:30 on the evening of Friday July 5th at the home of Mrs. Cary D. Waters who is chairman of the event.

On the afternoon of Saturday, July 13th, for the benefit of the fund, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Sackett are providing a Garden Party, to be held at their home. Details will be published in a later issue but we know of a fashion show, music by a New York orchestra and a floor show at which one of Arthur Murray's couples will dance.

Finally a group of plays will be presented at the Shoreham Country Club House on July 27th under the direction of Mrs. T. K. Elliott.

Friday evening, August 9th, Mrs. C. V. Pallister has consented to show the films, some in color, which she took of the HollandTulip Show this spring. She visited the Show with Mrs. E. F. Stevens who will speak on the subject the same evening, at the Shoreham Club House.

A Flower Show is scheduled for August 24th and is in charge of Mrs. F. W. Gridley and Mrs. E. F. Stevens.

Prompt payment of dues by all Garden Club members is earnestly solicited to insure furtherance of the Club's interesting activities.

ANOTHER BRICK HOUSE

They seem to be going in for brick in the erection of homes on the eastern end of Shoreham Estates. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stamer of Floral Park expect that the ultra modern home they are building will be ready for their occupancy by the first of next month. The house is situated on a high bluff which affords a commanding view of the Sound. The house was designed by a very prominent New York architect and is 69 feet wide.

The first of the brick houses to be built, belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Wilkins, will not be occupied this summer due to the illness of Mr. Wilkins.

THE MODERN PARTY

To begin with, you won't be able to sit down all evening, it being an unwritten rule that apartment-owning-hosts and hostesses must invite an even ton of guests more than their quarters will hold. And you will have to mix your drinks and get sick, because there won't be enough champagne to go around more than twice.

These elementary matters settled, you prepare to cope with the gravest menace to your happiness: the other guest. There will be the tap-dancing, story-in-dialogue telling, comic song-singing Amateur Entertainer and his rival, the Life of the Party. The Passionate Man with the perfect technique will undermine your self-confidence before you get started.

The Sport, of course, will keep you posted on all the details of every major sporting event of the past year. The Wanderer will drift slowly by, inspecting all the pictures and the furniture, snoring quietly to himself the while. And the Relentless Monologist, full of hot dog, yesterday's lunch and the hat she saw this afternoon, will trap you neatly in a corner and talk your ear off.

Add to these the Informal Guest, who goes to sleep in one of the spare rooms, and can't be found when he's wanted; the lady who dizzily insists, towards the end of the evening, that she is on a roller-coaster; the battery of Blondes - made to order; the actresses too new to society and the socialities too new to the stage; the Siren and the Serious Young Woman with her questions about the Balkans; the Queenly Young Men and the people who 'feel Fridayish'; and the Enthusiasts, who find everything 'terribly nice' when it isn't; - and you have the makings of a perfect modern party. Finally - unless you are uncommonly fond of backgammon - look out for the games.

In brief.

WARNING: Officer Frank H. Woodfield stationed at The Shoreham Country Club has been instructed to enforce the following ordinance:

Resolved, that the chief of Police be instructed not to allow dogs on the beach except when restrained on a leash.
