INDEPENDENCE DAY

Once more we rise to celebrate the Glorious Fourth. We decided we might as well rise, since there was no use trying to sleep. Bright and early the fire-crackers began to announce the occasion. In fact the first bird's song was climaxed by a snappy explosion.

However even the noisy fire-crackers seemed only to be proclaiming in staccato bursts of enthusiasm the glorious message of independence, liberty, freedom, which was drawn up so long ago and which has characterized our nation since its birth.

The blessed absence of the cannonading that used to greet the dawn of a Fourth of July, left pause for thoughts of a more peaceful nature. We bethought ourselves of the serene luxurious feeling induced by the realization that, 'To-day is a holiday!'

In Shoreham Village the next sound to be heard was the bugle call which summoned all the children of the village to gather in front of the home of Mrs. A. W. Varian, to form for the parade to the ball field where is held the annual Fourth of July ball game. To round up the stragglers, Herb Frei, Bob and Wes Oliver, Jack Cross and Bob La Porte, dressed in red, white and blue, fared forth in the Herbert Frei Band Wagon (with apologies) with drum bugle and trombone to broadcast the call to the colors.

Finally the parade was off! Flags flying, drums beating, bugles blowing, much tooting of horns, and each child blissfully arrayed in red, white and blue hats and carrying flags and parasols given them by Mr. Varian, the procession moved slowly (for some of the legs were very short) up Woodville Road. It was Miss Sue Miles first experience. She is four. But it was the twenty-first annual parade. For twenty one successive years the same delightful ceremony has opened the day's events. Mr. William J. Thompson, affectionately known as "Will" Thompson to the old timers began it and Mr. Alfred W. Varian has carried on ever since.

THE OLDEST LIVING THING ON EARTH

Three, five or ten thousand years ago the seed of a cypress rooted in the ground at Oaxaca, Mexico, where the village of Santa Maria del Tule now stands and grew into a colossus of the floral kingdom. All living things have a given span of life but El Tule (as the tree is called) has outlived every span, has survived civilizations, conquests, revolutions, cataclysms, and is now, by every known criterion, the oldest living thing on earth. Yet nobody knows the precise age of El Tule, notwithstanding that on the average of once a year somebody announces a new figure.

This colossal tree is a museum piece among all the flora of the earth. Its health is perfect, and if anything is wrong it is nothing more than an extraordinary pituitary gland. Following the sinuities of its gigantic trunk, one measures its perimeter as 108 feet at a height of five feet above the ground. So far as is known, no organism ever attained such a vast girth. The girth is out of all proportion to its height of 141 feet which is surpassed by trees in more temperate climates.

El Tule throws a ground shadow with an area of 7,200 square feet when the sun is at its zenith, enough for a small army to shelter beneath its spreading branches. Indeed, it is rumored that none other than Hernan Cortes and his army camped there, on the march to Honduras.

To this very day, El Tule is an object of profound veneration among the Indians. But it was venerated and worshipped long before the advent of Catholic missionaries, and it was this extreme devotion which prevented vandals from destroying the tree and using it for firewood.

The proximity of El Tule to such remarkable ruins as Mitla and Mount Alban argues that the giant tree did not go unnoticed among these ancient people. It was on the general line of transit between

CHILD PRIZEWINNERS CONSTRUCT OWN GARDEN

The winners in a garden design competition, all children, are hard at work on the eleventh floor of the R. C. A. Building in Rockefeller Center, New York City. They are actually building the garden which they designed themselves. A 'Skyscraper' Garden and its to be among the beautiful Gardens of the Nations which occupy the surrounding space on the same floor.

What an inspiration to child garden lovers everywhere! Every boy and girl summering on this beautiful North Shore of Long Island must wish for a little patch of land of his own. Sometimes, by clubbing together more can be accomplished than by attempting the impossible alone. Much, toward adding to the beauty of a community, can be done by its children.

Several villages have their Junior Garden Clubs. Why not yours?

To the Editor:

We suggest that Shoreham become more conservative with its corner hedges. We suggest that they be cut to moderation so as to be less of a hazard to drivers. Being able to see over such hedges would save brakes, nerves, care and lives. The height of these hedges is usually due to lack of attention and is not the result of any planned design.

BALL GAME

The annual July Fourth baseball game on Shoreham's ball field was a memorable event. The players wont forget it for weeks.

The game, which for years has been a battle to the finish between Wading River and Shoreham, this year, was just a friendly bout between two Shoreham teams. Shoreham won with a score of 13 against Shoreham's 7.

Monte Alban and Mitla. The former is the King Tut's tomb of the New World, having yielded a collection of gold masks and jewelry which vie with similar collections from other prehistoric tombs. The latter is the site of magnificent frescoes and sculptures and the grave of the Zapotecan kings.

At first thought one might imagine that El Tule's age would be a simple matter for modern science, since it is comparatively easy to determine the age of our giant redwoods and Douglas firs by counting the annual rings. But the ring count on a tropical tree is another matter. In a warm humid region trees grow with such vigor that they have been known to complete a ring cycle within one month. So if a horizontal core of the tree were extracted for the purpose of counting rings the record would be misleading because in calculating the age of El Tule one deals with a period of time that is almost geological in extent. There are no records to sustain an assumption that two thousand years ago this region had the same weather that it has now. It would not be impossible to have two rings for one year and a dozen for another. Moreover, the rings grow progressively finer with advancing age. In the case of Tule, the rings of the last few centuries would probably be microscopic.

The secret of El Tule's lush and youthful green, even in the midst of a long dry spell, was bared recently when it was established that the sub-soil of Santa Maria del Tule is saturated with ground water whose source is the Rio Grande del Tule and its tributaries. The soil into which El Tule has pushed its roots was deposited by the meanderings of these streamlets.

What profound changes have come over the earth since El Tule first sprang from the sod! Though earth quakes destroyed nearby cities and shook mighty mountains, though bolts of lightning felled trees and homes, though whole tribes have been exterminated by disease and the sword, no harm had come to the charmed life of El Tule. (Condensed from American Forests)

Ely Culbertson, the authority on bridge says, "Next love, bridge is the greatest indoor sport in America".

RECOVERY VERSUS WORRY

We were stirred to the writing of this article by a gem from the Readers Digest. It reads: "Worry is a thin stream of fear trickling through the mind. If encouraged it cuts a channel into which all other thoughts are drained."

It would be well first to point out how appropriate is the word "versus". Derived from the Latin, it implies a turning-the-back-to. One may, on recollecting our recent professional fistic bouts, get a very clear conception of our meaning. We are turning our backs to recovery, when we worry.

Physiologically, we are sending poison throughout our system; how can there be any fight in us for our everyday life? Socially, our contacts simply cannot be advantageous with an atmosphere of tragedy for our greeting. Mentally, we are dwarfed. Our enjoyment of beauty, fun, life, is vastly diminished. And aside from all that, let us ask a rhetorical why?

Has anyone yet found one good thing about worry? It is amazing that, without the slightest reason, sensibility, or good purpose, such a useless state of mind can be so all-pervading.

We can't, of course, expect, or wholly desire, that a philosophy of fatalism be ingrained in every human being. But we can hope that people of intelligence will not forget the importance, both to themselves and others, of a sense of humor!

SHOES OF FAMOUS HORSES

A man down in Ohio has an odd hobby - that of saving horse shoes. He is not even a devotee of that ancient and honorable pastime of barnyard golf - hoss-shoe pitchin' - nor is he in the old iron business. Ordinary horse shoes he disdains. His metier is collecting the cast off shoes of famous racing horses. He has a barn, the walls of which are literally covered with the iron footwear of winners at many a Louisville, Mineola and Belmont race, and of trotters whose fame and prohress have been known all over the count. We heard of a man, the other day who collects railroad engine bells.

SHOREHAM GARDEN CLUB

The Shoreham Garden Club expects a splendid attendance, judging by the sale of tickets, at the card party to be held at the residence of Mrs. Cary D. Waters, Friday evening, July 5th. The proceeds from this and other events scheduled for the near future are to be used for landscaping the grounds about the Shoreham Country Club House.

The outstanding event of the Garden Club season in Shoreham is a Garden Party planned for the afternoon of Saturday, July 13th on the lawn at the residence of Mrs. Arthur J. Sackett, the Club's president.

SHOREHAM COUNTRY CLUB

The imposing, newly enlarged Club House in Shoreham opened last Saturday evening with a well-attended dance. Wes Oliver and his Vikings came from New York to play for the occasion.

The attractive new lounge has been furnished by the House Committee under the chairmanship of Mrs. William Van Arnam.

The midweek dance, provided for the junior members, began its season last Wednesday evening. Miss Peggy Elliott was hostess. Miss Margaret Seals was on hand to give special instruction to any desiring it. These Wednesday evening dances are a weekly event at the Shoreham Country Club arranged by Mrs. J. Thomas Miles, chairman of that committee.

The program for the month of July has already been circulated and provides for a most entertaining group of activities.

Saturday evening, July 6 - DANCE
Wes Oliver and his Vikings.

Sunday evening, July 7 - SONG SERVICE
Conducted by Robert Oliver.

Wednesday evening, July 10 - MIDWEEK
DANCE Miss Ann Waters, hostess.

A handsome full size theatre curtain is to be installed on the Shoreham Country Club's new Stage. It is the gift of Mr. Donald B. Upham.

A SLIP OF THE KEY

When Theodore Roosevelt succeeded to the presidency, on the death of President McKinley, the brief ceremony took place in a private residence in Buffalo. In the write up of one New York paper, the compositor, coming to the word "oath" in the manuscript struck the wrong key for the first letter, and the sentence appeared: "For sheer democratic dignity, nothing could exceed the moment when, surrounded by the cabinet and a few distinguished citizens, Mr. Roosevelt took his simple bath, as President of the United States."

HINTS TO CAMPERS

The first method of cooking eggs on record, is that used by Egyptian shepherds who cooked them without fire: the eggs were placed in a sling which they turned so rapidly that friction of the air heated them to the right degree.

TRY TO LAUGH

The captain realized that there was no hope for the sinking boat, and said, "Is there any one among us who can pray?"

A meek man stepped forward: "Yes, sir; I can pray."

"Good," said the captain, "you start praying while the rest of us get life belts on. We're one short."

Whoa!

Soph: "Where you from?"

Frosh: "Whoosisville, Va."

Soph: "One of those jerk towns where everyone goes down to meet the train?"

Frosh: "What train?"

Doctor: "You cough easier this morning"

Weary patient: "I ought to, I've been practising all night."
