ALONG THE SHOREHAM ROAD

"Ye Scribe" - verily insatiable - calleth upon ye old Shoreham historian, now grown stout and childish, so that he knoweth not how to say MAY, for a tale of the long, long road - the Shoreham road - so in memory's garden, let's wander in retrospect recalling out of the past a roster of well known names, names of people we have been proud to have as members of our community.

There are many residents who may not know about the great and the near-great who have collected pebbles on our beach, and it may possibly be of interest to them to know those well-known people who at one time or another have lived in Shoreham homes.

Of course our list must be headed by that great scientist, Nicola Tesla, who for a time rented the Bailey house. Oh, that was long ago and the Baileys would hardly recognize that new house of Shoreham brick built on a sand dune, with not a tree or a blade of grass from the western boundary of Shoreham to the new bridge, which had then only recently been built across the ravine to give access to the cottage. This was long before our present Shoreham roads were laid out and Ward-encliffe Road was then only a briar edged cow path. On all sides were open fields where now beautiful lawns and blooming flower beds surround our Shoreham homes. The bridge, however, is the same old bridge which we cross to reach the attractive club house, and the locust posts which hold you high above the ravine have been set in the sand for more than 40 years.

One of the pioneer summer residents of the village was William S. Hordman, A.B.M. A.M.D.Ph.D. at that time Dean of the Medical School of the University of Michigan and one of the foremost brain surgeons of his day. He and my father roomed together at the University when they were undergraduates and their friendship lasted

20TH ANNIVERSARY OF SHOREHAM CLUB

The Twentieth Anniversary of the Shoreham Country Club was celebrated last Saturday night in the newly decorated club house. The occasion called forth a gala masquerade, featuring costumes of twenty years ago.

The evening opened with dancing which continued until shortly before midnight when Mr. John W. Haslett, vice-president, gave a brief history of the club and paid tribute to the many members who have given life and spirit to it during its twenty years of existence.

Then, while the orchestra played "Auld Lang Syne", the former presidents and their wives marched around the floor followed by all members and guests over thirty-five. During this march the judges, Mrs. Julian Acosta, Mrs. Monte Lewis, and Mr. Sheldon DuCret selected the best-costumed man and woman. Mrs. Alfred Varian, most attractively dressed in a cream lace Spanish costume, and Mr. Louis D'Arclay, realistically attired as a ship's captain of days of yore, received prizes.

Following this, those under 35 were led in a march by the present president of the club and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Wall Finn. From this group Miss Gladys Koch, arrayed in a lovely green Persian costume, and Mr. Donald MacKinnon, dressed completely in newspapers, were selected as winners.

Dancing followed the ceremony and Wes Oliver and his Vikings provided excellent music throughout the evening. The many present at this celebration may long remember it as a most happy occasion.

Following is the text of Mr. Haslett's speech, which is of interest to both old and new members of the club:

"It is fitting that tonight, the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the Shoreham Country Club, we pay tribute to the men and women whose vitalizing influence brought our club into being.

It was in 1916 that the club came into throughout their lives. Both planned to live out their last few years after they retired as neighbors living across from each other on Woodville Road, one in the Maples and the other in the present Kavanagh home. But Fate ruled otherwise. The great reaper took them within six months of each other and both died in foreign lands.

Dr. Herdman was a tall, distinguished looking man, very dignified, typical of the old time physician, but I had listened to stories of his undergraduate escapades with my father and knew that he had been a lively youth. For instance, James and Will had stolen a surrey in which a couple of sophomores had planned to take two belles to the Junior Prom. After the search had died down, James and Will drove their own fair ones to the ball in fine style.

Some of you have not forgotten the log cabin which, until it was torn down during the remodeling of the club house, stood on the present automobile parking space. Dr. Thomas M. Balliet of New York University and Dean of the School of Education owned this log cabin for several years and spent his summers here. I remember him chiefly for two things. One was his eternal fight against wire grass which he toiled early and late to eradicate from his lawn because he said it had creeping rhizomes which drove out any other grass planted, and second his love of music. Many an evening he spent in the house of Margaret Stanton Lawrence, next door, listening to Wagner operas as played on the piano by one of her friends, who had the remarkable faculty of reproducing entire operas by ear, although unable to read a note of music - it bored me stiff.

Perhaps you wonder what I mean by next door - in those days there was a house that stood north of where the badminton court is now located; more about it later.

Not many people living in Shoreham today will remember Tully Marshall and Marion Fairfax of stage and screen fame but this well-known actor and his charming writer wife once owned the Boehm cottage and spent many summers in Shoreham.

And, too, how many remember Blanche Walsh, the actress who once owned the Weiss man home? Leroy Scott, the writer, whose daily relaxation was to swim far out into

MIDWEEK MASQUERADE DANCE

Shots and shouts issued from the Shoreham Club house last Wednesday evening during the Midweek dance when several cowboy raids were staged. The wild-west Masquerade was attended by youngsters in many amusing costumes, although cowboy outfits were most popular with the boys.

Arrayed as a cabaret dancer was Miss Patricia Sherman, who took one of the two prizes for girls. Miss Jeanette Sarkeny took the other prize with a cowgirls outfit. Master Freddy Van Arnau, who came dressed as an Indian, and Master Kenneth Thurber, who came as a prospector, won the two prizes for boys.

Girls' prizes were contributed by Mrs. Geysa Sarkeny and the, and the boys' by Mr. J. Thomas Miles.

These Midweek Dances at the Shoreham Country Club are a popular feature given by the Club to its junior members. Mrs. J. Thomas Miles is now in charge of the dances, and selects the young hostess for each occasion. Miss Barbara Davis will be hostess next week.

DANCE AT SHOREHAM COUNTRY CLUB

There will be a dance as usual this Saturday night at the Shoreham Country Club. Wes Oliver and his Vikings will play. The steward in attendance for the remainder of the year is Mr. John Stallworth.

The two screens have arrived and will be placed at either side of the stage of the Club house, hiding the stairways. The screens, painted by James G. Bowie of New York, are dark blue on one side and henna with white horses on it on the other.

The Song Service this Sunday evening will be led by Mr. DeWitt Bailey. The Service begins at eight o'clock.

MASQUERADE AT FIELD AND TENNIS CLUB

There will be a gala Masquerade Dance at the Wading River Field and Tennis Club this Saturday night. All members are asked to put forth their best to make the Club's first costume ball and Masquerade a howling success. Originality is stressed. The masqueraders must be masked and remain so until the gong sounds for the Grand Parade, following which prizes will be awarded. Then the masks may come off. Some gay and striking costumes are already anticipated.

OCEAN LINERS IN THE SOUND

There is a decided movement afoot to bring many of the large steamers down Long Island Sound, and have them dock in Flushing Bay. It would not be possible to bring ships of the size of the Queen Mary or the Normandie into the Bay, but twenty thousand ton ships could be accommodated. Naval engineers are said to be enthusiastic about the plan, and naturally the Long Island Chamber of Commerce approves of it. It has been pointed out on several occasions that ships coming from European ports might come down the Sound and so save time. Most of the trans-Atlantic lines have steamers that call at Boston before New York, and while these ships would be too large to use the Cape Cod Canal, they could round the Cape, and come down the Sound, thereby saving hours.

It would take several years for the Flushing Harbor to be ready to receive large liners, but when, and if, the project is completed it will be an exciting addition to the charms of this section of the North Shore to watch the passing of the large ships.

We hasten to publicize the fact that Shoreham has a great lover in the heavy-weight class. We have the word of several of the ladies to substantiate this fact.

LEST YE FORGET

Following is the talk given at the Shoreham Country Club at a Sunday Night Song Service by Mr. Charles T. Hopkins. It so potently expresses the purpose of these Song Services:

We are not unmindful of the fact that for many of us Sunday is a crowded day, however for those who can come there awaits a serene hour. When we of all Faiths gather with one purpose to pause in the busy activities of life and remember now our Creator.

I am sure we are not unmindful of the fact that these meetings offer us the privilege of friendly, personal contact with each other. This should be regarded as of signal moment, for thru such associations we become more fully identified, with a clearer, better understanding of each other, thus binding more closely the bonds of friendship and of brotherly love all of which is so essential and so much desired in our lives. These Sunday Evening Services conducted under the auspices of the Shoreham Country Club must be productive of good. So long as the people of the Village of Shoreham manifest an interest in these meetings, we should, at least by our presence, in so far as may be possible, strengthen them in that interest.

The flower arrangements at the Shoreham Country Club this season have aroused much admiration. A new plan has been put into affect, with Mrs. Randall D. Warden, of the House Committee, in charge. Each week a different Garden Club member is responsible for the decorations. Mrs. Warden arranged the flowers for the opening dance, Mrs. Claude V. Pallister did the striking arrangements that were so much admired at the Fourth of July dance, Mrs. Edwin Belknap contributed the flowers for the Masquerade and Mrs. Henry Kohlman will plan a decorative scheme for the week of July 18th - 25th. By freshening the boquets during the week and making replacements where needed, it has been possible to attractive flowers at all times, which adds greatly to the charming effect of the newly decorated Club interior.

Picking white pebbles for the Beatty's walk has become a major Shoreham industry.

OFF TO A FLYING START

The still newly-wed Beattys have been unusually entertained and entertaining during the past few days. Our agent reports portentous blessed events featuring this couple, and predicts repercussions.

Just after dusk one recent evening there came a knock at the Beattys' new blue front door, and when answered, the knocker was not to be seen, but a lovely 4-foot shark was enthusiastically wagging his tail and yopping his jaws.

On the very next night, there came a gentler knock, as of a bountiful spirit, and lo! - a huge basket of flowers nestled against the threshold. The trilogy ended the following night when the Beattys unwittingly entertained in their absence, at a "come-as-an-unidentified-stranger party" It turned out to be an upside-down kitchen miscellaneous bed room, bath and lock-the-doors-and-windows-as-you-go-out party.

Mr. Beatty's shoes were nicely baked in the oven next morning, at 4:30 A. M. - just as the alarm clock rang.

Veterans and Blind. Have you seen recently the new work of these worthy, artistic men. From slumber covers, baby blankets, bed jackets, scarfs, to purses, bags and place cards, the handwork has a personal touch different from the ordinary. Prices are from one dollar up. Some of the light weight, warm, soft, pure wool slumber covers in pastel colors of orchid, green, blue, and yellow have been in use in some of the better homes of Shoreham and Belle Terre for ten years or more. Aside from the patriotic interest in these men you will enjoy their work. For fifteen years Donald W. Arnold, Port Jefferson 335-J, has devoted his time to bringing their work to your door. Just telephone to have him call.

BRIDGE AND LUNCHEON AT BELLE TERRE CLUB

On Thursday, July 30th, the Belle Terre Garden Club will have a Bridge and Luncheon at the Belle Terre Golf and Country Club. Bridge will begin at 11:00 o'clock and Luncheon will be served at 1:00. Those wishing to remain after lunch to play may do so. Mrs. Edward McMahon is in charge of the Bridge and Luncheon and will receive reservations by phone at her home.

The Garden Club's new Cook Book, containing 400 of Belle Terre's Best Recipes will be on sale for the first time at the Bridge and Luncheon.

HEARING - BIRDS - CATS - BATHS

Is modern man losing the keen ears of his progenitors? It would seem that way, although some unkind neighbors may say that his or her neighbor seems to have exceptionally keen hearing and a vivid imagination. In the cities the bedlam and confusion of noises causes us to heed only the most strident. Consequently when we come to the country our ears are dulled to the soft, sweet tones of the feathered songsters abounding in goodly numbers among us. From dawn until sunset our feathered neighbors offer their songs of encouragement and joy. Indefatigable workers they are now feeding and caring for their young, and (very important) killing moths and pestiferous insects. Unlike modern man their hearing is as acute as ever and if a bell is put on your tabby cat's collar it will help save the birds and their young. Also they appreciate a bird-bath very much.

T. F. K.

Someone got off a nasty one the other day: He asked why we don't have an index.

ENTER MADAME!

The catbirds around "Poison Ivy Cottage" went into ecstasies of curiosity last Saturday, when a visitor parked her marmoset in a tree. Mildred Parisette, of the Metropolitan Opera Company, stopped in for lunch, accompanied by said monkey and dog; also by Miss Helen Ward, Mr. Savage's secretary.

We were listening to one of these Women's Hour morning programs the other day. A very enthusiastic lady announced that she had some simply wonderful recipes for us. Our announcer considerably paused between phrases so as to give us time to jot them down, and during the intervals we could hear the thundering of traffic, squeeling of brakes and beeping of horns - evidently the studio window was open. And then she would cut in again: "Incidentally....." bang, crash and screeching of brakes outside...."Incidentally....." pause, and loud slam as of window shutting..... "Ahem, incidentally we have for, etc."

We thought this was a lot of fun.

 existence, as an outgrowth of get-togethers at the old Inn. The log cabin was used as a clubhouse. Mr. Alfred Varian, then as now handled all legal matters. At that time, the membership fee for an entire family was $10 .

During the war the ladies of the village set up a canteen at the club for the soldiers at Camp Upton. They provided home-made cakes and pies as well as cigarettes and bathing suits for the boys. On Fourth of July races and other athletic events were held for their amusement.

It was in the fall of 1919 that ground was first broken for the building of the new pavilion. During the following winter the late Mr. Frank Gridley came down weekends to supervise the work on the club house. The members were asked to put up $100 to purchase the land, and with the erection of the new building good times, noise, and membership increased-----but so did the deficits. Some ingenious soul conceived the idea of having an annual bazaar at the end of the year to underwrite the deficit. Pageantry and profits prevailed. The old standbys set up booths, arrayed them with silks, pottery and candy
 -----and then bought their own goods
 - with the receipts going to the club.

In recent years, with the disappearance of prosperity and the bazaars, the same and new broad-backed individuals have voluntarily made up many a thousand dollars of the Club's Red Ink Fund.

In the early years of the clubs existence, many fine times were had at community dinners and moving pictures were furnished for the youngsters by Mr. Zeno.

It was in the fall of 1934 that the Red Ink Boys, under the leadership of Mr. Monte Lewis got together for the most ambitious renovation program in the Club's history.
 The result was one of the most successful years in a decade. And this year we may thank a most generous member for the charming interior which we now have.

So, While the spirit prevails, or while the spirits prevail, let us rise and toast the Shoreham Country Club! And may the next generation look back upon our efforts with the same admiration we feel for those who have untiringly brought the club to its present heights! "

And then there was John Oskison, author and editor, who played a splendid game of tennis and who owned the Eddy cottage. All the women wondered why he walked pigeon toed until they learned he had Indian blood in his veins. It was John Oskison who introduced the Shoreham Mint Julep and left his inestimable touch to his neighbor, our worthy counsellor, Mr. Varian.
