FIFTEEN CENTS

S. S. Shoreham Sails Saturday Night— To Leave On Voyage Promptly At 10

Younger Set Have More Parties

Last Tuesday the 31st of August, Frederic Van Arnem entertained about eighteen of his friends at a beach party and dance afterwards. The young people collected on the Van Arnem's porch and then went to the beach directly in front of the house where Bill Van Arnem, who was dressed as a chef in long white apron and high chef's hat, had a roaring fire going on which to cook hot dogs and hamburgers. After there were no more hamburgers, and no one wanted to eat more hot dogs, the entire gang moved on to the Shoreham Clubhouse, where they danced and played games until it was time to go home.

Before the Wednesday night dance Miss Winnie Burr entertained at dinner, for a few of her friends.

Tonight this same set of young people will be entertained at the home of Mary Fickett and later they will also go to the Country Club to dance. The County Fair, just leaving Riverhead, will be brought to the Fickett home for a one-night stand. It will be complete in every detail, including pink lemonade and popcorn. The main feature of the fair will be an amateur hour.

Shoreham Garden Club

On Tuesday, September 7th, the Shoreham Garden Club will hold its annual meeting at the home of Mrs. A. J. Sackett in Shoreham. The speaker for this occasion will be Mrs. Addison Pratt of the Suwasset Garden Club of Port Jefferson. There will be an informal exhibit, and it is requested that every one who is a member of the Club send an exhibit. These exhibits may or may not be flowers grown in your own garden.

Here is an opportunity to have your arrangements criticised by Mrs. Pratt.

California, Here I Come

Jack Haganah is planning a three weeks' trip to California. He is spending his last week-end in Shoreham to say good-bye to all his friends. He will make the trip in a Model "A" Ford which he has recently purchased and he says that he expects to start sometime Sunday. It might be well to warn all police between here and Frisco that Jack is on his way.

ERROR

The Shoreham Sounder has made a grave error which it wishes to correct. In last week's issue we said that Wesley J. Sherman was chief of police, but we stand correction, he is only Village Clerk.

Annual Tennis Match With Wading River

The annual tennis match between Shoreham and Wading River will be held in Shoreham, Sunday, September 5, at two o'clock. This match has been a traditional rivalry between the two towns for many years. The team that manages to win the cup, four years out of seven retains the cup as its permanent possession. The old cup was won permanently by Wading River. Since then Wading River has won the new cup, which was presented by Walter Lippmann, for two years. This year both teams have been running preliminary matches and it is not known who will comprise the teams. However it is known that Stewart Dickerson, who has long been the key man for Shoreham will be in town and be ready for Saturday night.

Local Tennis Tourney

In search for talent for the match against Wading River this coming week-end and to give the residents of Shoreham some fun besides, the Athletic Committee of the Shoreham Country Club have sponsored a tournament among the residents here. The tournament was accepted whole-heartedly by the participants. Albert Barnhardt has been one of the most surprising of the players and considered by all a dark horse. He has taken both Bill Sedgwick and Gilbert Frei. It is expected that he will be one of those to be chosen to compete against Wading River. The tournament consists of four classes, for Men, Women, Boys, and Girls. Finals will be played this week-end, and cups will be awarded to the winners.

Labor Day Tea Dance At Club House

Monday afternoon from 4 to 7 o'clock, the annual Labor Day tea dance will be held at the Shoreham Country Club. This will be, as in the past, also a tennis reception at which residents of Wading River are to be guests. In the past this has been a very successful party. Refreshments will be served by the house committee of the Shoreham Club.

CREDIT DUE

The following people deserve credit for their work in the decoration of the club for this week-end: The entire Sherman family for their work and the use of their house as a workshop, Marian and Lassie Zenke, Peggy Elliott, Mrs. Dickerson, Natalie Hunsicker, Barbara and Bill Davis, Dave Pallister and Bill Van Arnem.

HOW ABOUT IT, FRITZ?

This morning Louise Sackett heard someone singing on the radio and asked "Is that Fritz?"

When asked who is Fritz she answered "Fritz on the beach."

Children Have Last Wed. Night Party

Last Wednesday night, which was September 1st, was the last Wednesday night party held for the children. The party began at eight o'clock and lasted until eleven o'clock, which was quite a treat to those children who were there. There were children of all ages from those the age of little Penny Clingman and Junior Sarkany, to girls who were sporting their first evening gowns, a thing they have wanted to do all summer. There were also some older children, who spent their time sitting on the side lines watching the fun and wishing that they were young again themselves. A few of these were Mrs. Gridley, Mrs. Ada Sherman and Mrs. Julian Acosta.

There were the usual dances and games, and the club supplied favors to go all around and a snow storm of streamers. After all this, ice cream and cookies were served.

The one little girl who seemed to be having more fun than all the rest, was Ann Geer, who seemed to be running around, laughing about anything and everything, and entering into all whole-heartedly. Little Cricker was a manly helper with the musical chairs, being quite the envy of all others his age who wanted to help too. Even little Mary Peck was not too broken-hearted when she lost out on the mat dance and the musical chairs.

Sloane vs. Sarkany

It is hard to tell whether Shoreham has seen the first, of what in the future is going to be a repeated battle. The battle took place on Thursday, and was between Edward Sloane and Junior Sarkany. It is not known if the fight was over a lady, but anyway it was over her pail. The contestants being both age three, both wanted the pail. Edward in his excitement to get it, hit Sarkany, who at once began to hit back and give Sloane something to think about. The referee, David Pallister, stopped the fight at this point and returned the pail to Miss Nancy Van Vorhis, its rightful owner.

Annual Night Club Night Of The Country Club To Be Held On The Good Ship Shoreham.

Floor Show To Start At 11 O'clock

Show Under The Direction Of Mrs. T. K. Elliott; Dances Were Arranged By Gladys Koch And Peggy Elliott.

During this past week workmen have turned the Shoreham Country Club into the S. S. Shoreham, the ship on which the "Night Club Night" will be held Saturday night, Sept. 4. The good ship will start on its imaginary voyage at 10 o'clock with Wes. Oliver and his Vikings playing in the "Grande Salon." There will be about three hundred Shorehamites and their guests on board the ship when it hoists anchor and sets out for unknown seas by way of the Long Island Sound. Captain Jack Haslett, the president of the Shoreham Country Club, will be at the helm to act as master of ceremonies, and to guide the ship over the uncharted waters.

As the last dance of the season, the Shoreham "Night Club Night" will have as its theme a gay party held on shipboard. The artists and carpenters, all local talent, have worked under the direction of Miss Lassie Zenke to transform the club house into the Grande Salon of an ocean liner.

The floor show, which, according to Mrs. T. K. Elliott, its director, "will start promptly at 11 o'clock even if there is only one person in (Continued on Page 4)

Club Members

Enjoy Buffet

Saturday night, the 28th of August, the Shoreham Country Club was the scene of a buffet dinner. There were ninety-two members and their guests present to eat their fill of roast beef and ham. The dinner was held on the main dance floor and after the dinner was over the tables were cleared and the regular Saturday night dance followed. There were almost one hundred people who came to the dance after the buffet was over, the policeman reporting that there were more than forty cars parked in front of the club.

The dinner was catered by the Dove and Turtle here in Shoreham. The dishes and silverware was loaned by Marvin's Hotel and Restaurant, in Port Jefferson.

1937 IN REVIEW

Back in July 1937, on the second day of that month to be exact, the first copy of the Shoreham Sounder appeared on the newsstands of Shoreham. The new editor had taken up the job of running the town newspaper where the last editor had left off. The Shoreham Sounder was started with the idea of giving Shoreham the best newspaper possible, and in doing this the editor tried to take the phrase: "News is that which has not happened yet," as his definition of news. In some cases the news has been weeks old, but for the most part, that phrase has been the goal of this newspaper.

With the Shoreham Sounder as a paper there has been a great variety of news that it has tucked away in its sheets. First there was the Fourth of July week-end which was a gay week if there ever was one. The usual parade, lead by Mr. Alfred Varian was, of course, the main feature of the week-end. There were two ball games which gave the older boys something to talk about, even if they couldn't break "the one up" deadlock between Shoreham and Wading River. That week-end there were the usual fireworks held on the beach in front of the Shoreham Country Club. That Saturday night, at the opening dance, Babe Koch and her Baby Bunnies were the main attraction.

It was in the second issue of the Sounder that we suggested that something should be done about the terrible hose contest that was part of the Shoreham Fourth. It was suggested that something be done about this contest, and that the residents of Shoreham learn how to handle a hose. The Fire Chief answered this editorial and stated his views on the subject. During the rest of the summer there has been nothing done about this situation, but it is not a closed issue by any means.

The next editorial comment in the Sounder was an appeal to have the Shoreham beach fixed up so that it would be a more beautiful place and a nicer place to spend the afternoon. It gave the editor great pleasure to see the results of this editorial, which were not long in coming.

It was on July 17, that the Shoreham Country Club had a masquerade for its members. This masquerade was a lot of fun and there were some very good costumes.

At the end of July, Shoreham became theatrical-minded. There was first the "Bermuda Bound" show at Port Jefferson High School. During the two-night run of this show there were many Shoreham people who attended it; there were also many Shorehamites in the cast. The next week the attraction was the "Strolling Players" presentation of four one-act plays. This was the best dramatic venture of its kind in Shoreham, marking the rebirth of drama in Shoreham. The cast of fifteen Shoreham residents under the direction of Mrs. T. K. Elliott, gave performances which some say was almost professional in appearance.

It was also the last week in July that at a village meeting, it was decided that the Shoreham beach should have a life-guard to keep an eye out for things that were happening on the beach and to be there in case of emergency. The job of life-guard was given to Mr. Jack Hughes, who fulfilled the position until he turned the job over to his brother Bob, within the last few weeks. It was not long after the town of Shoreham got its life-guard, that the people on the beach were excited by the false S. O. S. which was caused by the Davis family when they took their daily swim to Sills Gully. The new life-guard showed during this time that he was a master of all cases of emergency when he started out on a false mission of mercy in a very businesslike way.

August 7, the community was saddened by the death of Mrs. Bailey who lived in Shoreham for sixteen years and had become known to the residents as the "lady of the beach." Her loss was felt deeply by all those who knew her, and for the rest of the week-end the Shorehamites spent a quiet few days which were brought to a close by a memorial service to Mrs. Bailey, which was led by Mr. Stevens.

August passed quietly and all too quickly with only a baby party at the club, a garden club meeting, and some talk about a tennis tournament, which has in the past week, become a reality. However, the week-end which began on Sunday, August 20, when all Shoreham stood by while aid was given to a disabled yacht, saw a little excitement. This week should be called Children's Week, for it was this week that the children had a party almost every day and then ended the week by presenting their play, "The King's Great Aunt Sits on the Floor." It was this same week-end that the buffet dinner was held at the club, before the Saturday night dance.

On the whole, the summer has been a very enjoyable one, but has passed much too quickly. It has been a typical Shoreham summer, with the usual things happening. There were some very interesting new people in Shoreham and it is hoped that they will make Shoreham their permanent summer residence. There have been more babies on the beach this summer, many of them the grandchildren of those people who were the first to make Shoreham their summer home. The children's parties on Wednesday nights have been an unusual success thanks to Mrs. Sarkany, who has done a swell job taking charge of these parties and trying to make each one better than the one before. The success of these parties has also been due to interest of all the parents and those in particular who have acted as hostesses for each party. There has been the usual round of cocktail parties and as in past years Wes Oliver and his Vikings have played for the Saturday night dances.

The reason that Shoreham has had such a fine season is because everyone in Shoreham has cooperated in trying to make it a successful year. A successful season in Shoreham would not be possible if it were not for each and everyone who works to make it a success. An example of this is shown by the way the clubhouse," will consist of a snappy chorus of Shoreham's most beautiful girls and some imported from nearby neighborhoods, several excellent specialty numbers, and black-outs that should make the sphinx laugh until it fell over. The dances that are being coached by Miss Gladys Koch and Miss Peggy Elliott, will include in them a number by some of the sailors, who will come up out of the fore-castle of the good ship Shoreham, just to entertain the voyagers who will be on this very special one-night cruise.

The stewards, who are under the direction of Mrs. W. D. Van Arnam, will be on board to take charge of the galley and serve the travelers with the same things that they obtain at the Country Club on Saturday nights. The ship will no doubt be crowded, for as cooks will tell you there is no place where one can have a better time than on an ocean voyage. So everyone should be ready to go up the gang plank at 10 o'clock on Saturday night, Sept. 4th, when the S. S. Shoreham leaves from its pier at the foot of Woodville road.

some people have worked this week to make the Country Club into the S. S. Shoreham. There is a certain spirit shown here which, when one attains it, he seems to become a true "Shorehamite." It is just a little something different than is found in other places—that little something which speaks of loyalty to place and people—which in turn makes for a successful community. Now we are faced with the coming week-end which has in the past been one of the gayest. There seems to be a great many parties planned for this week-end, and there will be the Night Club Night at the club on Saturday. There will be the final round of our local tennis tournament, and the annual tournament with Wading River. On Monday afternoon there will be the tea dance, which will close the club activities for 1937.

As all are going on the imaginary cruise on the S. S. Shoreham there will be no one left behind to say good-bye to those on board. Therefore the editor of The Shoreham Sounder will say "Bon Voyage" and "so long until 1938."

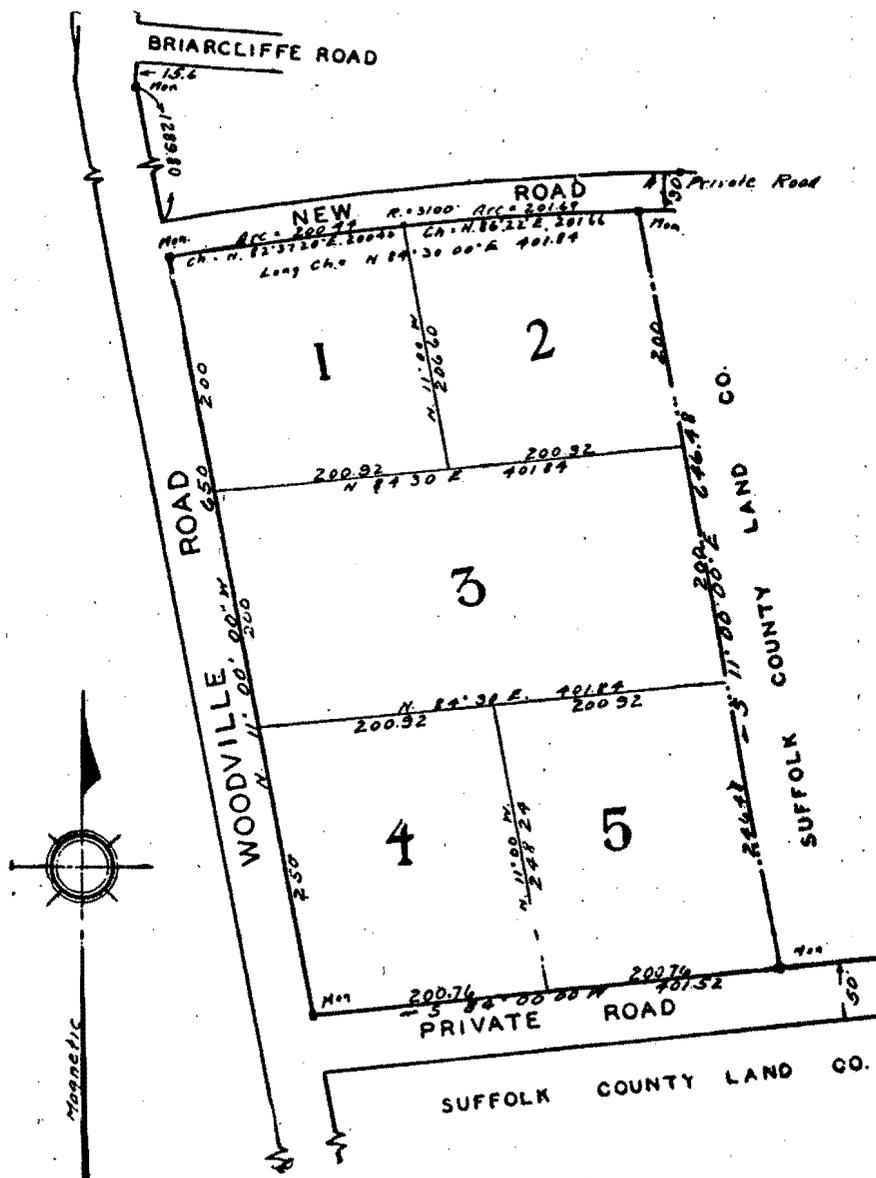

New Chairs for the Club

Three dozen new chairs for the Shoreham Country Club arrived this morning. They are at present unpainted because, according to Mr. Montgomery H. Lewis, who negotiated the purchase, due to the fact that in this weather paint would not have dried in time so that the chairs might be used for this coming Saturday night.

These new chairs will take up a good deal less room than the ones that have been used in the past. The tables on the terrace also have been cut down so that they will not protrude into the dance floor.

SEASON NOT OVER

It has been suggested that the people of Shoreham try to stay in Shoreham during the fall months. Mrs. Ada Sherman, who is a strong advocate for this cause, says that this part of the year is one of the nicest seasons in Shoreham. There are several other people who wish to stay in Shoreham late in the fall.

WATERPROOFING THE FAMILY

By W. E. LONGFELLOW

Assistant Director, First Aid and Life Saving, American Red Cross.

Because swimming is the one sport the whole family can enjoy together it is well to have each member waterproofed. By that I mean they ought to know a number of simple things to do in an emergency.

They should know how to float, to rest upon the water if they get tired of swimming their pet stroke. They should also know how to turn from the floating position. They should be so schooled that when a wave hits them in the face they should instantly exhale against it, gently but with enough pressure to keep the air out of their breathing spaces. The principle of bearing down on the water with the flat hands to get the head out for air should be known to all of them.

During the World War a sailor fell off a transport in mid-ocean and kept himself afloat for six hours by unhurried opening and closing of his arms and legs while floating on his back. This is a type of back stroke and very easy to learn.

It's Easy To Float

While in a floating position relax the elbows and knees and open arms and legs to the sides. Then as the arms are brought smartly to the side and held there the legs are squeezed together forcing the water out, and shooting the body forward.

These movements can be made just often enough to make headway and prevent the feet sinking to a vertical position. The smoother and less hurried the movements, the longer one can stay up. The nose and mouth are out for breathing, but it's better to inhale through the mouth and exhale through the nose in case waves are slapping against the face.

All hands should be cautioned about diving into muddy or cloudy water of unknown depth. Get in feet first and explore before taking a header. Let my experience help you.

Years ago at Belle Isle, Conn., three of us were standing on a float at low tide. A boy took a shallow dive and stood up in water nearly to his arm pits. At the other end of the raft a woman took a shallow dive and stood up in water waist deep. I reasoned that I should be able to dive between the two with a shallow dive and stand as they did. I didn't know there were several large rocks in there and that they were covered with long, sharp oyster shells. After my dive I looked as though I had been through a meat chopper and it took three stitches to close a gap in my forehead. So I learned about diving from that.

Don't Get Into Jams

Wise people learn from the experiences of others and don't insist upon such experimentation as diving into shallow water, sticking up in the mud or bouncing their head against rocks. Bathing at low tide is always fraught with danger of stepping into clam holes or off the edge of a channel into deep water. Clammers are always getting into a "jam" with a bag of shellfish around the neck because they haven't been waterproofed to realize that the clams should be floated independently.

In fivers people wade in chest deep water with the stream instead of against it and are carried into deep holes by the current. If they were water-proofed they wouldn't care. Not being waterproofed they use their little swimming ability to fight the current instead of going with it toward the nearest shore.

Waterproofing includes knowing when to float and let the current or tide do the work, and when to swim cross-wise to get out of it. Waterproofing keeps one from becoming panic stricken if he happens to come up under a float or rowboat. He merely holds his breath and feels for the edge of it, or keeps his direction sense and goes back the way he came in. The best swimmers in the family should pass along their information to the rest, and so raise the level of watermanship for young and old.
